

BOOM-SNAP-CLAP

Boom-Snap-Clap is a fun game that can be played with a partner. To get started, find a space in the room and place an object, like a pen, on the ground. Sit cross-legged facing your partner with equal separation between the two of you.

The teacher will call out an action, like "boom," "snap," or "clap," and all students must perform the action called out. The game continues with different actions until the teacher calls out "GRAB." At this point, it becomes a race between the two partners to grab the object that is between them on the ground. The first one to grab it wins! This game can be played with any number of pairs, and it's a great way to get students up and moving while also improving their reflexes and coordination.

BOOM

Students create a boom effect by moving their open palms downward to make contact with the floor. As a class this will create a loud sound that can be heard from everyone in the room.

SNAP

Students quickly bring their thumbs to middle finger and flick the middle finger down toward the palm to make a snapping sound. This will be a distinct sound for everyone in the room.

CLAP

Students quickly bring their hands together in front of their body to clap them together. As a class this will create a loud sound that can be heard from everyone in the room.
